And We Will Return to the Policy of Taking Care of Ourselves First, and Looking After the Rest of the World Afterward—Magnificent Reception Tendered the Eloquent Orator—He Was Tired, but Made a Brilliant Address.
Judge Martin on Tariff and Silver—The Banner Meeting of the Campaign Was That of Last Night.

Last night was Republican night in the Ceramic City. No one had expected it; no extensive preparations had been made; but when the Hon. Roswell G.
Horr stepped within sight of that great crowd gathered in the Fifth street rink and heard the mighty shout which went up from thousands of throats and soared about the rafters and girders of that spacious building, no one would have
for a moment denied that the people of East Liverpool had come forth as one man to honor a gentleman and the cause he represents.

It was a stirring scene. Thousands of voices rang forth the glad welcome, thousands of beaming faces smiled a greeting, and that old man, bowed as he is with the weight of years and fatigued because of long months of vigorous campaigning, returned smile for smile and greeting for greeting. He
and when the cheers sounded louder and
the demonstration became more pronounced, he showed his pleasure in the merry sparkle of his twinkling eyes.
Mr. Horr is an old man, but he is not too old to enjoy, as much as the most delighted of his many hearers, the vein of quaint humor that has given him a foremost place in the ranks of platform orators. He knew the people were glad to see him, and weary as he could not but have been, his face showed his determination to increase their pleasure.

Mr. Horr spoke at Columbiana yesterday afternoon to no less than 7,000, and did not arrive here until after 7 o'clock last evening. He rested a short time after supper, and it was late when he reached the rink. Meantime the Manley band had paraded, and more than double the number of people who have attended a meeting in this city since the opening of the campaign had found their way to Fifth and Washington streets.
creeds. Democrats and Populists were seated side by side with Republicans and Prohibitionists, and however much they might have differed in politics, they were unanimous in agreeing that they would soon hear the best speech of the campaign, would soon listen to an argument that would convince some,
create doubts in others and entertain all.
And they were not mistaken.

The ladies were there also. The galleries were crowded. Scores of women who have no vote, but are capable of wielding a mighty influence, had come to hear an intelligent discussion of the great issues of the day. Throughout the evening they manifested their earnestness and interest by the closest attention and enthusiastic applause.
There were more ladies present than have been gathered at all the meetings held in the city since the first gun was fired, and that is as much a compliment to Mr. Horr as it is to the sensible politics he so eloquently preaches.

After the International band, arrayed
in all the fantastic costumes ingenuity could devise, had rendered a discordant selection or two, and Manley's band had played a few stirring airs, the Patriotic league, present in a body, led the crowd while all sang "America." Another wait followed, but there was no rest-
length a cheer from the street announced the coming of the distinguished speaker, and Chairman Nellis announced from the platform that J. H. Brookes would preside at the meeting, and Secretary Blake would read the names of vice presidents. In the midst of the

Judge J. A. Martin, of Lisbon, and members of the central committee reached the platform. Then the demonstration occurred.

Plainly.

When the cheering had subsided so that he could be heard, Mr. Brookes said:

"Ladies and Fellow Citizens—The presence of so many of you here tonight is proof positive that the citizens of East Liverpool, like the citizens of all the country, are deeply interested in the great duel now on, and which will be fought to a finish in a little less than
placed the responsibility where it belongs, and will show your interest by elevating by your votes to the highest office within the gift of the people that peerless gentleman, tried statesman, pro-
friend, William McKinley. [Applause.] I point with pride to the fact that he who was elevated to the highest place in the gift of his party by its almost unanimous voice, he for whom men shout and women pray, is a product of Ohio, and of the great Eighteenth district of which we are a part. It has been said that some are born great, others have greatness thrust upon them, and others are born in Ohio. This is a spontaneous meeting. When your committee went to Columbiana we were uncertain of success. There the gentleman, in what has been considered the hotbed of Populism, talked this afternoon to 6,000 or 8,000 people. His voice has been raised for protection and honest money from the Atlantic to beyond the Mississippi, and he is well worn out and only able to speak to you a short time tonight. But we have another with us, one you all know. He did not come prepared to speak, an explanation which is certainly due him.
Martin." [Applause.]

"The Democrats are increasing the national debt $66,000 every 24 hours.
Under Republican rule they cried we were building up a surplus; creating a fund to tempt thieves; but how is it now? I would rather have a bonus at the end of the year than a deficit. The Democracy condemned self confidence in the people. The people judged them, and knowing they have run the nation in debt and failed to fulfill their pledges, what have they done? Why that was foretold by our Savior more than 1800 years ago. If you read the fourteenth chapter of Luke you will find how he knew. A certain rich man had a steward. Uncle Sam is a very rich man, and his steward is the Democratic party. He accused the steward of wasting his goods, and he called him to give an account of his stewardship, just as the people have been saying to the Democratic party And when the rich man said 'Thou shalt no longer be my steward,' he said 'What shall I do? I cannot dig, to beg I am ashamed.' And he called to him his master's creditors. 'How much owest thou?' he asked of one. 'One hundred measures of oil' was the answer. 'Then take thy bill quickly and write 50.' [Laughter.] How much owest thou?
'One hundred measures of wheat.' 'Then take thy bill and write four score.' [Laughter.] If there ever was a more faithful account of the Democratic party I have failed to find it. They, too, have a new financial theory.

who desire to do the best thing for the country. I will assume they desire to be consistent, and if you believe in the past platforms of your party you can't vote for Bryan. [Applause.] The Democrats in 1892 were for sound money, and wrote it in their platform in words which cannot be mistaken. [Applause.] Prominent Democrats to whom I mentioned it—we have a few in Lisbon, such as W. H. Spence and W. S. Potts.
[Laughter.] Denied it; but when I read them the plank they decided they had flopped. If there is a Democrat here who wants to be consistent, he will not flop with his party on a policy they had not thought of four years ago. Stand with the Republicans every time if you want bimetalism. The Republican party is the friend of bimetalism. At no time under the principles of Democracy have we had it. All Republicans are bimetal-ists, because the party has given the best bimetalism the country ever had.

"There is an additional thought Every contract this United States has made as a part of it that principle which pledges us to keep every dollar as good as every other dollar. Is it true that we are going to do a thing that will cause us to be a stench in the nostrils of every self-respecting people?
[Never, never.] There are Democrats
men as Altgeld, Tillman, Bryan, Mary Lease, and the rest of the long-haired gentlemen. Are you, Democrats, going back on your platform and do what
be consistent."

"How about the Republicans in '92?" shouted a voice from the rear of the rink.

"They were for sound money then, as they are now, and have been for many years," came the quick retort of the speaker, and the knowing one was silenced.

Democrats and Republicans. He is a leader of whom we are not ashamed—one who did not gain his leadership by stampeding a convention, but through years of patient toil. He is a statesman whose pluck has won the admiration of every man who knows him.
'I went in 1872 to hear Wilson, vice depression, which has continued until the promise of a Republican victory stimulated business. It was necessary to call a special session to devise means to reassure capital, and in his message Grover Cleveland pointed out that there was a depression, and means must be found to remedy the defect. They did,

and passed the Wilson bill, and how has that affected Columbiana county?
We have in Lisbon a splendidly equipped tin mill that has given out $10,000 every month since its wheels began to turn. We have it to give labor to our people, and a market to our farmer, simply because such a man as William McKinley [Here the applause was so loud the last part of the sentence went unheard.]

"The tariff which set that mill in operation the Democrats cut in two.
A cut in duty was followed by a cut in wages. The men of our town were robbed of $3500 every month. It is substantially the same here. It is the same in every protected industry. The duty on what you produce was reduced, and you know better that I can tell you what you went through. Under the new regime 83 per cent less money is paid out in your town, and yet they ask you to continue in power that party pledged to continue this policy. Will you do it?

president under Grant, at a great
great torch light procession marched
The hall would not hold the vast audience, and as thousands turned away from its doors I saw a young man with clef chin and smooth face mount the steps of the court house, and in the torch light glare speak to the multitude.
I thought he was a plucky young man, unknown to fame, but he had the grit to make a name. I have watched his
congress, and twice elected governor of this great commonwealth of Ohio. Today I still see his star in the ascendant, and millions are ready to follow him as was followed the plumed helmet of Navarre.
Join the procession, and we will overcome these infamous teachings by a victory that will bury them deep in their November grave. I thank you."

Judge Martin had made a good speech, and the crowd attested its satisfaction by prolonged applause. Mr. Brookes again waited for silence, and said:

"I now present one who has served the nation well in many ways. On the
man has done more for the welfare of his native land than the gentleman I now name, and this multitude is a tribute of the high regard East Liverpool has for Roswell G. Horr."

Then a shout went up. It was a mighty hurlah of approval. Mr. Horr walked to the front of the platform, but it was a minute before he was allowed to talk.

MR. HORR'S VIEW.

Briefly but Splendidly He Dealt With Great Subjects.

"Ladies and Gentlemen—It is due myself to say that I am here by compulsion. [Laughter.] I have been speaking for almost three months, mostly in the open air, and at the age of life to which I have now arrived, I ought not to speak more than once in 24 hours, and if I fail to enforce my views with vigor I know you will bear with me, because I make a great sacrifice to please you.

"I have an interest in this great question. In 1890-91-92 I traveled through 29 states and visited over 200 busy cities, and did not find any town where the people were not employed.
Men were busy, wages were good. In the last three years I have visited 21 of those same states and many of the same cities, and I have not, unless this is an exception, been where some men were not out of employment or working at reduced wages. Why, is it true here?
[Cheers and laughter.] You know, I warned the people if they took their interests out of the hands of the party that knows how to do business and put them into the hands of a party that never did business there would be trouble, and now I think I have a right to say I told you so. [Laughter.]

"It all came because we abandoned the principle of protection, the principle of taking care of ourselves. After Wilson had passed his bill he crossed the water, went to England, and they gave him a banquet and a procession.
Yes they did. [Laughter.] I served 12 years in congress, and I want my banquet served here, by our people and under our flag. [Applause.]

"You see the fact that a tariff build-up new industries shows plainly that it gives the people new labor. Say, is there a free trader here? If so, will you tell me of some industries your tariff has built up? Don't all speak at once, please. [Laughter.] There don't seem to be any. I thought so, too, until I went up into Minnesota a short time ago.
I asked that question, and one man said
yes, it had built up two industries, soup-houses and Coby's army. I had to acknowledge the corn. [Applause.]

"Why, we need protection to keep our own people employed. I know the free
manufacturing until there is an over-production; the markets are glutted and we can't do business. I wonder if during the time from '89 to '91 we didn't do more business than we have done in the past two years. [Applause.] We didn't seem to have much trouble then.
Do you know why? I do. They passed the free trade law. They cut wages, threw men out of employment, and took
boys, a man never buys as much when he can't as when he can. [Laughter.]
Yes, I know the free traders tell us the boys will have to work for less, but they will be more constantly employed. Now isn't that queer? I had always thought it was best to have steady employment and good wages. Now, for myself, I would rather work three days for $6 than six days for $3 [laughter]; but of course I would be more constantly employed. [Applause.]

"No, no, we have had enough of that imbecility. Dick Oglesby, the old war governor of Illinois, had a nice way of putting it. 'Why,' he said, 'the Democrats can't run the nation; they don't

He was right. [Applause.] Now we have a chance to settle the question.

year. I only refer to the prosperity of the past, and ask the boys if they recollect it then. They do. Then I ask if they know what they have now. They should smile. I close by asking them which they like best, then or now. I have had all the now I want. [Laughter.] I want to return to the doctrine of taking care of our own first, and fix the rest of the world afterward. But we have a new set of philosophers, a set of chaps who go about the country trying to make the workmen believe, and that covers about all of us, for only now and then we find a dude, that all we need is
say this advisedly, because they preach a doctrine that no one ever dreamed of.
If they are right, then wisdom never struck this planet until the other day.
[Laughter.] They want to make us believe they will bless the country by cheapening our money. What a ham-bug! Why didn't Bryan answer the workingman the other day who asked him, 'How do I, who live by my daily pay, be benefited by having my pay in cheap dollars?' He couldn't have misunderstood it. The trouble was he did understand it. Can anyone here answer it? They never answer it. Do you know why? Can't. The man who labors wants to have as good a dollar as
only an effort to cut down the wages of the people who labor. Just think of it;
buying cloth at two feet for the yard instead of three. You might get more yards, but you wouldn't get more cloth.
It's the cloth you're after and not the
yards, understand. [Laughter.]

might have the government help us out by making a yard stick 24 inches long as long as one 36 inches; but the government can't do it. That's done by nature;
it can't be done by law. Does anyone think the government can make a 12 ounce pound as heavy as 16 ounces? If you want to get the distance between two places you've got to have something
between East Liverpool and Chicago with a pint tin cup. You can't weigh a man, and use gas as the weight. Why
the fellow would weigh less than nothing.
You might weigh the Populists that way, but not an ordinary man. [Laughter.]
When you measure value
you must measure it by something of value. These new philosophers don't say so, but they always get things wrong end first. Things are made valuable by human toil, labor, according to the
them. If the government can pass a law to create value, why not provide for us all? If a man gets hungry, have the government pass a law that he be no longer hungry. [Laughter.] Let him
get over it on flat food. [Laughter.]

set of men going about the country trying to make the people believe they can get something for nothing, keep your hand on your wallet if you have any money. The only way to create value is by honest
honest money are the men who labor. I know I'm that way. I want mine good,
and all the people should have it as good as any on God's globe. That's the doctrine of the Republican party. It has been the doctrine from its foundation until now. Didn't we make greenbacks as good as gold? Well, I should say
so. [Applause.] I remember about it, you know. We did it then, and we're going to keep on doing it. [Applause.]

Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri, and this little extra is my last in Ohio, and my free coinage friend, when the idea of November come we will bury your non-
around and bother us again." Here Mr.
and glancing at the face seemed about to end his talk, but East Liverpool would not have it that way. "Go on!"
cries came from the enthusiastic thousands, and the gentleman was compelled to continue.

"I must be careful," he said. "I am an old man, and there will be a day of physical reckoning. But I am not yet
audience that this is serious business.
We are about to elect a president; about to fill that chair. Have you ever thought what that means? That chair was once filled by Washington, Jefferson and Jackson; and Clay and Webster thought it would about fit them. It was filled by that grandest statesman of the age, Abraham Lincoln. [Applause.] General Grant filled it and your own martyred Garfield sat there. These were all full grown men. Is there any one

the past, and ask the boys if they recol-
struck this planet until the other day.

ment can't do it. That's done by nature;
the fellow would weigh less than nothing.

as good as gold? Well, I should say
so. [Applause.] I remember about it,

Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas,
around and bother us again." Here Mr.
to continue.

Jackson; and Clay and Webster thought
by that grandest statesman of the age,

Tired, but Made a Brilliant Address.
That of Last Night.

made; but when the Hon. Roswell G.
he represents.

merry sparkle of his twinkling eyes.
Mr. Horr is an old man, but he is not
termination to increase their pleasure.

Mr. Horr spoke at Columbiana yester-
way to Fifth and Washington streets.
they might have differed in politics,
And they were not mistaken.

entire evening they manifested their
attention and enthusiastic applause.
tics he so eloquently preaches.

stration occurred.

Plainly.

When the cheering had subsided so

presence of so many of you here tonight

certain of success. There the gentleman,
only able to speak to you a short time tonight. But we have an-

INCONSISTENT DEMOCRACY.

Judge J. A. Martin Remembered Thoughts
From Other Platforms.

"Mr. Chairman, Fellow Citizens—I desire to congratulate you that by the grace of God and the favor of the Republican party you are so near the close of that promised period of prosperity we heard so much about four years ago. I congratulate you that the Arcadia promised for the people will soon be a matter of history. [Laughter.] You know four years ago some people told you that if the principles of Democracy prevailed we would have an era of unexampled prosperity. The people of the United States are disposed to experiment, and they did try that experiment to their complete satisfaction. They are consequently in the same quandary as that Irishman who suddenly withdrew his hand from the box in which was a large snapping turtle. 'Oim thyring to foind out,' he said, 'whether that's its head or its tail. I want to know whether Oim bit or sthunk.' [Laughter.] That's the quandary in which the people are today.
You want to know whether your bit or stung; but it matters little, you will not again depart from the path of wisdom that experience has pointed out, and try a new theory.

"I think there is one principle every man should apply to himself before he casts his ballot. In business I make it a rule to first look out for the interests of J. A. Martin, and let the rest of the people take care of themselves. When men vote they should first look out for their own interests. If all will do that, the policy which is best for the greatest number will prevail. What is to our interest may not be to the interest of the rich mine owner. Rich mineral galleries under the hills beyond the setting sun. It is the white mineral, silver.
We have none of it in Columbiana county, but other minerals and interests we do have, and we must stand by them best. We have in this county eight different towns and cities that, like your own city, have been built up by the principles embodied in a protective policy.
[Applause.] This policy made the populous East Liverpool, and built up a potting industry second to none in the states; and did you ever think your town was made great by the protective principles of the Republican party? [Applause.] Not only is this true of your city, but it is true of the whole county, from Lisbon in the center, to East Liverpool, Wellsville on the south, to Salem, Leetonia, Columbiana, East Palestine and Waterford on the north. For a little while four years ago they persuaded us this protective principle was wrong, and it was abandoned; and what was the result? Have you compared that time in '92 to the period which followed? No sooner was the Democratic party in power than capital, that most timid of all things, was under cover, and we experienced immediate

has that affected Columbiana county?

eration the Democrats cut in two. A cut in duty was followed by a cut in

years ago. If you read the fourteenth
ard. Uncle Sam is a very rich man, and
been saying to the Democratic party.
take thy bill quickly and write 50.' [Laughter.] How much owest thou?
take thy bill and write four score.' [Laughter.] If there ever was a more
a new financial theory.

tioned it—we have a few in Lisbon,
bimetalism the country ever had.

Every contract this United States has made has as a part of it that principle
Lease, and the rest of the long-haired

rink.

"They were for sound money then, as
enced.

torch light glare speak to the multitude.
I thought he was a plucky young man,
to follow him as was followed the plumed helmet of Navarre.

again waited for silence, and said:

hurrah of approval. Mr. Horr walked

MR. HORR'S VIEW.

Great Subjects.

duced wages. Why, is it true here?
[Cheers and laughter.] You know, I
you so. [Laughter.]

the principle of protection, the principle of taking care of ourselves. After
gave him a banquet and a procession.
years in congress, and I want my ban-

has built up? Don't all speak at once,
went up into Minnesota a short time ago.
yes, it had built up two industries, soup-houses and Cox's army. I had to acknowledge the corn. [Applause.]

didn't seem to have much trouble then.

inability. Dick Oglesby, the old war

the past, and ask the boys if they recol-
the workingmen believe, and that covers
doctrine that no one ever dreamed of.
struck this planet until the other day.
[Laughter.] They want to make us be-
cheapening our money. What a humbug! Why didn't Bryan answer the

long as one 36 inches; but the government can't do it. That's done by nature;
the fellow would weigh less than nothing.
way, but not an ordinary man. [Laughter.] When you measure value

set of men going about the coun-
and all the people should have it as good
as good as gold? Well, I should say
so. [Applause.] I remember about it,

Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas,
around and bother us again." Here Mr.
to end his talk, but East Liverpool
to continue.

audience that this is serious business.
Jackson; and Clay and Webster thought
by that grandest statesman of the age, Abraham Lincoln. [Applause.] General Grant filled it and your own martyred Garfield sat there. These were all full grown men. Is there any one

COUNCIL should look upon the request of the East Liverpool and Rock Spring Electric company with consideration. The stockholders are in the main residents of our own town, and have already spent thousands of dollars in creating an enterprise needed these many years. An electric line connecting the city with the town on the Virginia side cannot but benefit East Liverpool, and council owes it as a duty to the people they represent to do all in their power to advance the interests of this place. Grant the franchise.

BUNCOMBE BRYAN.

Facts are stubborn things. The workmen and the workingwomen of East Liverpool want the truth, the whole truth, about this man Bryan. Four years ago he was a free trader in every sense the term implies. He wanted goods made cheap to the farmer and the workmen of the nation. What did he propose to do? He proposed to let goods come in free of any duty from foreign countries. He got his desire, or as near to it as the sensible element of that congress would permit, and what was the result? Workingmen and workingwomen in foreign lands have been given employment, while workingmen and workingwomen of the United States have been idle—no work to be had. In some cases they were fortunate enough to have employment, but at reduced wages in order that their employers might compete with the pauper wages of other countries. The nation has been cursed for almost four years by this man Bryan and the amateur statesmen who sat with him in that blundering congress, and now this same man is howling about the sorrows of the working classes, and howling at a princely salary in the interest of a few millionaire owners of silver mines. He is attempting to fool the masses as he aided in fooling them four

SEIZING AMERICAN NETS.

A Canadian Revenue Cutter Making It Lively for Fishermen.

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 16.—The Canadian revenue cutter Petrel is at work again. She stopped the tug Goodell, Captain Isaac Sweet, and after the captain had been warned not to fish in Canadian waters he was allowed to go. Captain Dash also had nets north of the others, and on hearing the news that the Petrel was patrolling about there at once steamed to where his nets were and got near enough just in time to see his nets confiscated. He dared not protest for fear of having his tug confiscated. Captain Dash says he is quite sure that his nets were on the American side of the line, and says the captain of the Petrel has a habit of estimating the line according to his own ideas. Dash estimates his loss on nets at $700. The tug Boyd, Captain Harry Boyd, went out and has not returned. It is feared she has been seized.

HE DEFENDS BANKERS.

A Treasury Official Writes a Long Letter.

SAYS THEY ARE MISREPRESENTED.

He Declares They Have Not Raided the Treasury, as Stated, Because, He Says, It Is Not to Their Interest to Do So. Text of His Statement.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Assistant Secretary William E. Curtis of the treasury department has written a letter to Assistant Secretary Danby of the department of agriculture, in which he defends the New York bankers from the allegations often made that they are apparently engaged in withdrawing the gold from the government's reserve and putting it away in their private vaults for their own selfish purposes and to accomplish certain alleged improper objects. After calling attention to the fact that New York, by operation of certain natural commercial laws, without the interference of legislation, has come to be the settling place of almost all contracts for the sale of our products abroad, and in that market the bills of exchange, which represent products exported, are offered for sale. He says:

The people engaged in the banking business in New York may be divided into three classes: First, the officers of the regular banks of deposit or issue, including the national banks; second, the dealers in securities, some of whom have foreign connections through whom they market a large amount of securities and upon whom they draw a corresponding amount of exchange in payment for securities sold abroad, and to whom they remit exchange or gold in payment for securities sold here; third, agencies or branches of foreign houses, who are perhaps also dealers in securities, but whose main business is buying and selling exchange on Europe for the profit which can be made in the operation itself.

The first class are especially interested in the general prosperity of the country and in keeping up the value of securities held by them as collateral; they are compelled to call in their outstanding loans, which reduces their lines of credit, diminishes their profits, prevents them from discounting commercial paper, restricts mercantile and industrial enterprise and in the end creates failures in business and general financial and commercial distress. The second class are directly interested in keeping up the value of securities in this country which they have largely sold abroad, and their interests are to avoid gold exports and the public apprehension arising from a reduction of the gold reserve. The third class buy or sell exchange whenever an opportunity for profit offers. If there are few commercial bills to be had in the market and the demand by remitters is great, exchange rates rise and if dealers having credit abroad find that they can sell their bills at a higher price than the probable cost to them of withdrawing gold from the treasury and shipping it abroad to meet their bills at maturity they do so, thus making a profit on the transaction. The leading members of the third class in New York can be numbered on the fingers of both hands, and in fact three or four of almost all of the withdrawing of gold for export purposes as will be seen by an examination of the list of parties exporting gold to Europe published in the daily press during its continuance.

Each shipment made usually represents in the aggregate a large number of single transactions. One concern may sell $1,000,000 of exchange in a day, but it may be represented by 150 to 250 different bills, running from $100 upward, and they pay these bills as they are drawn out for export purposes, which they draw out of the treasury in one sum and send in one shipment. It will thus be seen that a great majority of the bankers are peculiarly interested in keeping the gold reserve up to its normal level and for this reason have been willing in the past and are still willing to make considerable sacrifices, and in order to prevent shipments of gold have contributed large amounts of money to pay the dealers in foreign exchange the profit they would have made by such shipments. This was notably the case in the operations of the so-called syndicate which bought the bonds of the government under contract at Feb. 8, 1895, and again in the early part of this summer.

Although withdrawals for export have been going on for several years it is only within two years that an apprehension that the government might be unable to redeem its obligations in gold has caused withdrawals for any other purpose, and at no time has there been any evidence that withdrawals of gold from the treasury were made for the purpose of affecting the market.

The facts that the banks were able to furnish all the gold required for export up to the middle of the summer of 1892, and did so, was because large amounts of gold were being sold to them and by them into the treasury, and paid out again in the course of business, and it had not begun to be displaced by the silver issues, the amount of which had not up to that time reached such a volume as to form an important portion of the ordinary commercial transactions in the New York market.

During the past few weeks and at present, and for the first time in this administration, various factors are in combination which have produced low rates of foreign exchange and consequent importations of gold. The principal ones are the favorable trade balance, the reduction in the volume of currency outstanding and in active circulation and the continued high rate of interest for call loans at New York, this latter condition being partly a result of the preceding situation. The low rate for foreign exchange cause importations of gold from London and other foreign cities because at these points exchange on New York is scanty and rates at very high rates, and the dealers and drawers have a profit in the difference of price at which gold can be obtained abroad and at which it can be used here.

In other words, these foreign markets are in the same condition that the United States has been in at various times during the last five years. It is true that gold has been imported on one or two occasions lately when purchases of government bonds were being made, but for this a premium was paid and it was purchased and shipped like cotton or wheat, without regard to the rates of exchange ruling here, and was an abnormal proceeding.

During the years succeeding the resumption of our agricultural products until the currency question disturbed our monetary relations, there was a regular movement of gold to this country in the late summer and autumn while we were marketing our agricultural products abroad. A return flow from this country abroad began in the spring and continued through the early summer to pay our debts for imports and for other purposes. Low exchange rates in the former and high rates in the latter periods caused these movements, and the balance of trade was usually in our favor, as it is at present. The excess of merchandise exports over imports for eight months up to the 1st day of September of this year amounted to $5,997,945, while for the corresponding time last year the excess of merchandise imports over exports was $46,367,268.

In other words, instead of discharging this latter amount in foreign markets, we this year are receiving from them $5,997,945, a balance in our favor of $122,375,213. Moreover the tide of securities flowing back to America from foreign holders since 1890 has largely subsided, at least for the time being, and there is not as much of a drain from here on that account. The high rate of interest paid in the New York market for call loans during the past few weeks has attracted foreign capital from centers where the interest rates have been much lower. This peculiarity was also very marked during August of 1893, at the height of the currency panic, when the ruling rates of interest were abnormally high and large amounts of money were loaned from abroad and the gold coin sent to this country. The contraction in the active currency is caused by the large increase in the balance of the United States treasury arising from the bond issues, and from the hoarding of gold and notes redeemable in gold which has been going on among the people for some time, in view of a possible failure of the United States to continue their redemption in gold.

The critics who talk so freely about importing fifty millions of gold for export from the other side of the ocean do not seem to realize the importance of such a transaction and that there must be value exchanged for it, either in the shape of exports or securities, or in some other way. It will be seen from the published names of the parties who receive the gold imported that they are mainly the dealers in exchange or in the hoarding of gold, and foreign connections, and that the national banks, except as institutions to receive the deposits of their customers, are not at all interested, except in the case of one or two of the larger, who have London correspondents with whom they do an exchange business. It must not be forgotten that the confidence in the situation which has placed the country in its present satisfactory condition regarding its gold reserve was largely due to the efforts of the bankers of New York in the early summer.

The fact of their agreeing to furnish bills of exchange at rates under the gold shipping point and endeavoring to bring about artificially that which we now know is a logical result from natural causes inspired so much confidence that normal conditions prevailed and the situation cured itself. According to the published reports during April, May, June, July and the first week in August, while gold was being exported, the rates of sterling sight exchange at New York have ruled from 48 1/2 to 49 1/2, and during the last of August and up to the present time, while imports of gold were being made, they have ranged from 48 3/4 to 48 1/2.

Workmen of Canton Make a Call on McKinley.

14 CARLOADS OF PENNSYLVANIANS

From Northern Erie County and Corry Heard a Telling Speech on the McKinley Law—A Large Delegation From Western New York.

CANTON, O., Oct. 16.—A delegation from western New York consisting of professional men of the cities and farmers, dairymen and grape growers from the surrounding country have paid their respects to the Republican standard bearer. The delegation, which filled eight coaches, was from Dunair, N. Y. The introductory address was made by Congressman W. B. Hooker of Fredonia.

The most surprising event of the day was the informal call of the working people of Canton. They came in thousands from the 125 factories, large and small, in this city. They came, many of them, with their wives and children and babies. They filled the broad North Market street, a half mile from public square to Louis avenue, at the McKinley home. They crowded over the fences from the streets and the sidewalks onto the doorways and lawns of other homes.

There was an unusual tremor in Maj. McKinley's voice when he arose to respond to the sentiments of the venerable spokesmen from the local factories who addressed him.

Addresses were made by Edward Jones, a factory watchman, and John Crouse, a woodworker.

A trainload of callers to see Major McKinley also arrived in a special train of six cars over the Cleveland, Canton and Southern railroad, composed of farmers and business men from northern Erie county, Pa., and were in charge of W. J. Sell. This delegation held 10 or 15 minutes until a second train of eight coaches filled with business men, farmers and other citizens of Corry, Pa., and the two parties were combined and marched to the McKinley home, where one address sufficed for both.

Rev. S. A. Smith spoke for the Corry party and W. J. Sell for the Erie party. Major McKinley spoke as follows to the Pennsylvania visitors:

I bid you warm welcome to my city and home. You are here today from no mere curiosity, but because each of you believe you have great stake in the national contest, which is to be settled two weeks from next Tuesday. You are here because you love your homes, your families and your country; and because you would have the expression given on the 3d day of November of your highest hopes, your best thoughts and your loftiest aspirations for this great free republic. You all understand that this is a government conducted by its legislative and executive departments. If the people of this country want to put into public administration and law and order the policy they must have both the executive office and the Congress of the United States. You cannot embody your purposes into law by having the one or the other—you must have both; and I trust that the people of Pennsylvania and the people of all the states of the United States will see to it that the national house and senate of the Union are not neglected at the polls next November. I recall, with peculiar pleasure, the visit I made to Erie county just about this time two years ago. I remember the early call I made upon you in the city of Erie. I remember, too, with greater satisfaction, that the Erie district sent to the Congress of the United States a Republican to represent it in that great branch of the national legislature. We were then discussing, as we are discussing now, sound money and a protective tariff. Have the people of Erie county changed their minds? (Cries of "not a bit of it.") Are they still in favor of an honest dollar with which to measure the people's exchanges and a protective tariff that is ever mindful of the interests and wellbeing of the American people?

In this contest, as then, we have the aid and assistance of thousands and tens of thousands of Democrats in every part of the country, who think more of the honor of the government than they do of their old political associations. We bid them welcome—welcome allies in this great conflict for the maintenance of the public honor. Some people say we have not enough money. The trouble is, my fellow citizens, we have not enough confidence to put in circulation the money we now have. We have just as much money as we ever had in all our history, and it is as good as it ever was, but the trouble is, those who have it are distrustful of the future, and they won't invest it in industries and enterprises that give employment to all. Now what we want to do first of all is to restore public and private confidence; let the whole world know this is a nation that proposes to keep all its contracts inviolable and continue a currency that is worth a hundred cents on the dollar every day and everywhere. I read this morning a remarkable statement written by Macaulay in his "History of England" which presents in the most of a debased and fluctuating currency. He says, speaking of a period in the history of England:

"When the great instrument of exchange, which was money, became thoroughly deranged, all trades, all industry, was smitten as with a palsy. The evil was felt daily and hourly in almost every place and by almost every class, in the city and on the threshing floor, in the fields and in the depths of the mines. Nothing could be purchased without a dispute. Over every counter there was wrangling from morning to night. The workman and his employer had a quarrel as regular as the Saturday came around. On a fair day or market day the clamors, the reproaches, the taunts, the curses were incessant and it was well if no booth was overturned and no head broken. No merchant would contract to deliver goods without some stipulation about the quality of the coin in which he was to be paid. Even men of business were often bewildered by the confusion into which all pecuniary transactions were thrown. The simple and careless were pillaged without mercy by extortionists whose demands grew even more rapidly than the money shrank. The prices of the necessities of life, of shoes, of oatmeal, rose fast. The laborer found that the bit of metal which when he received it was called a shilling, would hardly, when he wanted to purchase a loaf of rye bread, go as far as six pence. Where artisans of more than usual intelligence were collected in great numbers, as in the dockyards at Chatham, they were able to make complaints heard and to obtain redress. But the ignorant and helpless peasants were cruelly ground between one class, which would give money only by tale and another which would take it only by weight. They counted the money out to the laborer who could only get rid of it by weight."

Do you want a money of that sort in the United States, my fellow citizens (cries, "No, never"), that is one thing in name and another in value, a thing which you take for a dollar and which is worth from you at whatever its market value may be in the commercial centers of the world? No, I answer, forever no. If there is any one thing that should be honest it is the money that represents the wealth and labor of the American nation. Then, my fellow citizens, we want an opportunity to earn that money; and the way to do that is not to do our work in Europe, but to do it at home.

The way to do that is to restore the protective policy that will put a tariff high enough upon foreign competing goods that will enable us to do all our own manufacturing and preserve our own American people. This is the policy of the Republican party; it is the dictate of the enlightened patriotism; it looks to the preservation of the most valued interests of the American people.

I thank you for this call. I bid you welcome to my city and wish to all of you a safe return to your homes.

Three enthusiastic cheers were then given for McKinley.

HON. TOM WATSON ACCEPTS.

He Mails His Letter to Chairman Butler of the Populist Committee.

ATLANTA, Oct. 16.—Hon. Thomas E. Watson has mailed to Senator Marion E. Butler, chairman of the Populist national committee, a letter accepting the Populist nomination for the vice presidency.

Mr. Watson, in confirmation of the rumor that the letter had been forwarded, telegraphed The Journal as follows:

Mr. Watson was in conference today with Chairman Butler and Committee-man Washburn.

ATLANTA, Oct. 16.—Senator Marion Butler did not come here today. Advice from Chicago are that the trip to see Watson was abandoned on receipt of a message from Watson, the character of which is not known. The belief here is that Watson takes umbrage at the committee's action. He has written a letter to the committee in Kansas making a hot attack on the Democrats.

Thinks Ireland's Letter Mixes Religion and Politics.

"The Vatican, although in favor of McKinley, disapproves of Archbishop Ireland's letter, because it openly mixes religion and politics, which the Vatican desires to keep separate in the United States. It is feared that the letter will displease the eastern and southern Irish-Bryanist Catholics. It is probable that instructions will be sent to Mgr. Martini, the papal delegate, concerning the attitude of the Catholic clergy."

Decided In Favor of Fusion.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Secretary Edgerton of the Populist national committee has announced the decision of the committee with reference to fusion between the Democrats and Populists on the electoral ticket in Wyoming, taking a position favorable to the fusion as agreed upon and against the attempt to put a full Populist electoral ticket in the field.

Says McKinley Will Carry Stark.

CANTON, O., Oct. 16.—John Thomas, chairman of the Stark county central committee, publishes a statement giving polls in the 84 precincts of this county and declaring that McKinley will have a good majority in his precinct, ward, city, county and state. Until 1893 this had been a Democratic county for nearly thirty years.

Populists Expelled Kolb.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 16.—The Populist state executive committee has expelled Captain R. F. Kolb, twice Populist candidate for governor, and Colonel P. G. Bowman, former state Populist chairman, from membership because they abandoned Watson and supported Sewall and the silver Democratic candidates.

Republican Nominations Invalid.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 16.—Judge Simon has handed down an opinion declaring invalid the certificates of nomination of William B. Meredith, Kittanning, and W. H. Ritter, Butler, rival Republican candidates for the senate in the Forty-first senatorial district.

BECAUSE AMERICANS.

The Reason Two Planters Were Imprisoned in Cuba.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—William and Louis Glean were passengers by the Ward line steamer Yunuri from Havana. The brothers said that they were glad to get away from Cuba with their lives, although financially ruined. Their fine plantation and property at Sagua were entirely destroyed.

Both men had been in prison for 39 days, but through the efforts of the United States consul at Sagua, Consul General Lee and other influential friends they were finally liberated. No cause was given by the Spanish authorities for their arrest, their crime, they said, being the fact that they were American citizens, which, in Spanish eyes, was in itself sufficient evidence that they were hostile to Spain.

PRINCE HILKOFF IN ALTOONA.

The Russian Inspecting the Leading Railroads of This Country.

G. Pangborn, a well-known American railroad and former newspaper man, who has arranged the details of the trip.

With Andrew Carnegie, George Westinghouse, H. C. Frick and other prominent Pittsburghers, the party was shown different Carnegie and Westinghouse plants in and about Pittsburgh.

Spain May Let Cuba Go.

CADIZ, Spain, Oct. 16.—It is an open secret that if Spain has not put down the insurrection in Cuba by the 1st of next March it is the intention of the government to give up the struggle and let the island go. It is said that the policy is being adopted of exaggerating the magnitude of the trouble in the Philippines with a view of preparing the people for the ultimate design of letting Cuba go.

To Prevent a Second Lynching.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct. 16.—Policeman Roberts, who was mortally wounded in the tragedy in which James White and two policemen were killed, has died. Henry White, young son of James White, who escaped while his father was barricaded in his home, was captured and secretly removed from the county jail to prevent lynching.

Used His Knife the Quickest.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 16.—Bud Haydon and James Hays, with other negroes on the steamer Hawkins, were playing craps and Haydon won all of Hays' money. The latter demanded a quarter of blood and reached for his knife. Haydon was the quicker and almost cut Hays' head off.

A Preacher and Wife Insane.

Still Stays at West Point.

A local paper dropped into grievous error last evening when it announced that Robert Ferguson, the boy who was scalded in an accident at Walker, would recover. Inasmuch as Ferguson died Wednesday night, the enterprise of the "great" newspaper is really remarkable.

The street force have put down a brand new board walk on Sheridan avenue that is regarded with envious eyes by residents of suburban thoroughfares not yet improved. At the outset it was the desire of property owners to have pavements placed on Sheridan avenue, but not receiving proper support, this intention was abandoned.

The McKinley club last evening held a very short session. The president was instructed to accept the offer of the Lotus club for the use of their rooms on election night. The International band serenaded them, and the president was instructed to make arrangements with the telegraph company for a special wire to be run to the rooms on the evening of election.

The shortage of gas this week has not only been the source of much inconvenience to individual consumers, but all the manufacturing concerns who are patrons of the gas company suffered more or less. The laborer found that the bit of metal which when he received it was called a shilling, would hardly, when he wanted to purchase a loaf of rye bread, go as far as a six pence. Where artisans of more than usual intelligence were collected in great numbers, as in the dockyards at Chatham, they were able to make complaints heard and to obtain redress. But the ignorant and helpless peasants were cruelly ground between one class, which would give money only by tale and another which would take it only by weight. They counted the money out to the laborer who could only get rid of it by weight."

Do you want a money of that sort in the United States, my fellow citizens (cries, "No, never"), that is one thing in name and another in value, a thing which you take for a dollar and which is taken from you at whatever its market value may be in the commercial centers of the world? No, I answer, forever no. If there is any one thing that should be honest it is the money that represents the wealth and labor of the American nation. Then, my fellow citizens, we want an opportunity to earn that money; and the way to do that is not to do our work in Europe, but to do it at home.

The way to do that is to restore the protective policy that will put a tariff high enough upon foreign competing goods that will enable us to do all our own manufacturing and preserve our own American people. This is the policy of the Republican party; it is the dictate of an enlightened patriotism; it looks to the preservation of the most valued interests of the American people.

Three enthusiastic cheers were then given for McKinley.

He Mails His Letter to Chairman Butler of the Populist Committee.

ATLANTA, Oct. 16.—Hon. Thomas E. Watson has mailed to Senator Marion E. Butler, chairman of the Populist national committee, a letter accepting the Populist nomination for the vice presidency.

Mr. Watson, in confirmation of the rumor that the letter had been forwarded, telegraphed The Journal as follows:

Mr. Watson was in conference today with Chairman Butler and Committee-man Washington. ATLANTA, Oct. 16.—Senator Marion Butler did not come here today. Advice from Chicago are that the trip to see Watson was abandoned on receipt of a message from Watson, the character of which is not known. The belief here is that Watson takes umbrage at the committee's action. He has written a letter to the committee in Kansas making a hot attack on the Democrats.

"The Vatican, although in favor of McKinley, disapproves of Archbishop Ireland's letter, because it openly mixes religion and politics, which the Vatican desires to keep separate in the United States. It is feared that the letter will displease the eastern and southern Irish Bryanist Catholics. It is probable that instructions will be sent to Mgr. Martini, the papal delegate, concerning the attitude of the Catholic clergy."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Secretary Edgerton of the Populist national committee has announced the decision of the committee with reference to fusion between the Democrats and Populists on the electoral ticket in Wyoming, taking a position favorable to the fusion as agreed upon and against the attempt to put a full Populist electoral ticket in the field.

Says McKinley Will Carry Stark.

CANTON, O., Oct. 16.—John Thomas, chairman of the Stark county central committee, publishes a statement giving polls in the 84 precincts of this county and declaring that McKinley will have a good majority in his precinct, ward, city, county and state. Until 1893 this had been a Democratic county for nearly thirty years.

Populists Expelled Kolb.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 16.—The Populist state executive committee has expelled Captain R. F. Kolb, twice Populist candidate for governor, and Colonel P. G. Bowman, former state Populist chairman, from membership because they abandoned Watson and supported Sewall and the silver Democratic candidates.

Republican Nominations Invalid.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 16.—Judge Simonson has handed down an opinion declaring invalid the certificates of nomination of William B. Meredith, Kittanning, and W. H. Ritter, Butler, rival Republican candidates for the senate in the Forty-first senatorial district.

BECAUSE AMERICANS.

The Reason Two Planters Were Imprisoned in Cuba.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—William and Louis Glean were passengers by the Ward line steamer Yumuri from Havana. The brothers said that they were glad to get away from Cuba with their lives, although financially ruined. Their fine plantation and property at Sagua were entirely destroyed.

Both men had been in prison for 39 days, but through the efforts of the United States consul at Sagua, Consul General Lee and other influential friends they were finally liberated. No cause was given by the Spanish authorities for their arrest, their crime, they said, being the fact that they were American citizens, which, in Spanish eyes, was in itself sufficient evidence that they were hostile to Spain.

CADIZ, Spain, Oct. 16.—It is an open secret that if Spain has not put down the insurrection in Cuba by the 1st of next March it is the intention of the government to give up the struggle and let the island go. It is said that the policy is being adopted of exaggerating the magnitude of the trouble in the Philippines with a view of preparing the people for the ultimate design of letting Cuba go.

To Prevent a Second Lynching.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct. 16.—Policeman Roberts, who was mortally wounded in the tragedy in which James White and two policemen were killed, has died. Henry White, young son of James White, who escaped while his father was barricaded in his home, was captured and secretly removed from the county jail to prevent lynching.

Used His Knife the Quickest.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 16.—Bud Haydon and James Hays, with other negroes on the steamer Hawkins, were playing craps and Haydon won all of Hays' money. The latter demanded a quarter or blood and reached for his knife. Haydon was the quicker and almost cut Hays' head off.

A Preacher and Wife Insane.

Still Stays at West Point.

A local paper dropped into grievous error last evening when it announced that Robert Ferguson, the boy who was scalded in an accident at Walker, would recover. Inasmuch as Ferguson died Wednesday night, the enterprise of the "great" newspaper is really remarkable.

The street force have put down a brand new board walk on Sheridan avenue that is regarded with envious eyes by residents of suburban thoroughfares not yet improved. At the outset it was the desire of property owners to have pavements placed on Sheridan avenue, but not receiving proper support, this intention was abandoned.

The McKinley club last evening held a very short session. The president was instructed to accept the offer of the Lotus club for the use of their rooms on election night. The International band serenaded them, and the president was instructed to make arrangements with the telegraph company for a special wire to be run to the rooms on the evening of election.

The shortage of gas this week has not only been the source of much inconvenience to individual consumers, but all the manufacturing concerns who are patrons of the gas company suffered more or less. ## MRS. MCKINLEY CLEARED

She Had Nothing to Do With That Saloon Property.

EAST LIVERPOOL FOLKS INQUIRED

And Heard the Vindication From the Lips of Doctor Holtz, Presiding Elder of the Canton District, Who Had Investigated, No Foundation For the Report.

East Liverpool people, who were told by their prohibition friends that Mrs. McKinley had leased property for saloon purposes, investigated for themselves, and find their informants either willfully misrepresented the facts or were woefully mistaken.

Mr. J. S. Fowler, of East End, made the investigation. He had heard the story, and wanted to know what percentage of truth it contained. Going to Canton he interviewed Dr. Holtz, presiding elder of the Canton district of the M. E. church, and a man whose integrity has never been questioned. Doctor Holtz had heard the lie when it was first circulated, and as Mrs. McKinley was a member of his church, made close investigation. He found that her father, the late Mr. Saxton, had nine years ago leased a piece of land to several Canton parties. One of them became interested in a brewery, and as the original lease had not expired used the land as he desired. That lease is still in force, and Mrs. McKinley can do nothing now, but when it expires the brewery company will use the ground no more. Dr. Holtz completely exonerated Major and Mrs. McKinley from any blame, and has so written to church people all over the country who have asked him about the matter. Mr. Fowler had it from his own lips, and came home convinced.

NOT INTERESTING

Was the Game of the Professionals and Amateurs.

The game of the professional and amateur tossers was one of the most uninteresting contests ever seen on the home grounds. The amateurs, with possibly a few exceptions, played as though they were frightened, and did not put up their usual good game. The only redeeming features of the contest were catches by Mercer in the fourth and sixth innings, and a one-handed catch by Carey of a throw from Howard. The score:

here who thinks it can be filled by a mere kid? [Applause and laughter.] We will not let him do it, largely because we don't have to. We are running a full grown man ourselves. He has been tried, and has filled other places very well. Think you he will be supplanted by a man whom Foraker describes as being like the Platte river, 1,000 miles long, six inches deep, and four miles wide at the mouth? No. No. "Now listen. The people are not going to take the great Republic of Washington and Lincoln and place it in the hands of Ben Tillman, Altgeld, Jim Weaver, Bill Bryan, and as our friend says, Mary Lease, because they have too much sense. We Americans have a knack of sizing people up, and they don't like the cut of this crowd's jib. You know what I mean. [Laughter.] You would not select them for serious business, these leaders who run at the mouth. Are they the men you would choose to help you out? If you were on your death bed would you select one as executor, that is if you wanted your wife and children to get anything? Good Americans won't trust them because they abuse the people who make up this great Republic. Why, they make you think a man is dishonest if he has a $5 bill, and if he happens to have $25 he is a thief. They are against prosperity, abusing all, misleading the people, and not safe to trust.

The applause was loud and long when Mr. Herr returned to his seat, and received the congratulations of scores who flocked to the platform. The people as they left the hall talked of nothing but the address, and if Mr. Herr could have heard the earnest words of praise uttered on every hand he would have blushed until even his best friends would scarcely have known him.

From the Sublime to the Ridiculous

A FEW WORDS OF TRUTH should go further with an enlightened public than pages of fiction, or volumes of bluster. If there's a single individual that doubts our great Clothing purchase from the assignee of Rothschild, Baum & Stern, Rochester, N. Y., the transfer of the stock, the railroad receipts, are here; but comparison of qualities and prices will convince the most biased skeptic that this stock has been bought and is being sold at 50c on the dollar.

OUR WORTHY NEIGHBORS' lavish display of envy is the best evidence that not alone our own following, but the former customers of the less progressive concerns, are enjoying the benefits of our unusual offerings. We thank them, however, for their liberal free advertising of our sale, and trust they will speak with equal vehemence this week of the price cutting in our furnishing and hat departments. Stamping our name on each article, and limiting the quantities, will prevent unwelcome dealers from participating in the feast.

From Assignee of ROTHSCHILD, BAUM & STERN, Rochester, N.Y.

TO ENLIVEN THE OCCASION there will be some lively price cutting in our hat and furnishing departments. This new guarantee of ours to refund money, without argument, if you can match us, makes dealing here more pleasant than ever. Our strictly one-price-to-all system gives the shrewd shopper no advantages which the more confiding must pay for. Ours is the store of the people, for the people; lookers become buyers; buyers become our best business promoters.

CLOTHING AT HALF. Men's Dark Gray Melton Overcoats, or Oxford Mixtures, if you prefer, $5, and price refunded if you can match 'em under $10. Men's Black Genuine Kersey Ulsters, nicely finished, at $6, and money refunded if you can match 'em under double. Men's Good Heavy Weight Blue Cheviot Suits, $5, Children's Suits for $1, Children's Overcoats for 75c, are a few of the cheaper items; but when it comes to the finer goods, peerless attire, such as the best custom tailors cannot improve upon, with the same guarantee of money refunded if you can match at anything near the price, you will not wonder that our sale has caused consternation in the ranks of EAST LIVERPOOL'S tradesmen.

One of them became interested in a brewery, and as the original lease had not expired used the land as he desired. That lease is still in force, and Mrs. McKinley can do nothing now, but when it expires the brewery company will use the ground no more. Dr. Holtz completely exonerated Major and Mrs. McKinley from any blame, and has so written to church people all over the country who have asked him about the matter. Mr. Fowler had it from his own lips, and came home convinced.

The game of the professional and amateur tossers was one of the most uninteresting contests ever seen on the home grounds. The amateurs, with possibly a few exceptions, played as though they were frightened, and did not put up their usual good game. The only redeeming features of the contest were catches by Mercer in the fourth and sixth innings, and a one-handed catch by Carey of a throw from Howard. The score:

Amateurs.....0 0 0 1 0 2 1 1—5 8 11 Professionals.....5 1 0 4 1 5 1 *—17 9 3

Batteries—McShane, Baxter and Finch; Howard, Mercer, Lynch and Davis.

IT GROWS BRIGHTER.

The prospects for trade are given by a trade paper as follows: "Encouraging reports of increased trade reach us from various pottery salesmen, and we find from inquiries among potters, jobbers and dealers that business during September and October shows a large increase over preceding months. A more hopeful feeling prevails everywhere, and the fall and holiday trade bids fair to be much larger than there was reason to hope for during the exceedingly dull summer months."

here who thinks it can be filled by a mere kid? [Applause and laughter.] We will not let him do it, largely because we don't have to. We are running a full grown man ourselves. He has been tried, and has filled other places very well. Think you he will be supplanted by a man whom Foraker describes as being like the Platte river, 1,000 miles long, six inches deep, and four miles wide at the mouth? No. No. "Now listen. The people are not going to take the great Republic of Washington and Lincoln and place it in the hands of Ben Tillman, Altgeld, Jim Weaver, Bill Bryan, and as our friend says, Mary Lease, because they have too much sense. We Americans have a knack of sizing people up, and they don't like the cut of this crowd's jib. You know what I mean. [Laughter.] You would not select them for serious business, these leaders who run at the mouth. Are they the men you would choose to help you out? If you were on your death bed would you select one as executor, that is if you wanted your wife and children to get anything? Good Americans won't trust them because they abuse the people who make up this great Republic. Why, they make you think a man is dishonest if he has a $5 bill, and if he happens to have $25 he is a thief. They are against prosperity, abusing all, misleading the people, and not safe to trust.

"Now the Republicans have started out to take possession of the government, and we're going to do it. I say as sure as the sun rises and sets we are going to elect McKinley, and then we propose to establish the old system of building up our own country, and keeping all money in circulation so our dollar will be good as any other. Do that boys, and see that you all vote for McKinley. The applause was loud and long when Mr. Herr returned to his seat, and received the congratulations of scores who flocked to the platform. The people as they left the hall talked of nothing but the address, and if Mr. Herr could have heard the earnest words of praise uttered on every hand he would have blushed until even his best friends would scarcely have known him.

A FEW WORDS OF TRUTH should go further with an enlightened public than pages of fiction, or volumes of bluster. If there's a single individual that doubts our great Clothing purchase from the assignee of Rothschild, Baum & Stern, Rochester, N. Y., the transfer of the stock, the railroad receipts, are here; but comparison of qualities and prices will convince the most biased skeptic that this stock has been bought and is being sold at 50c on the dollar.

OUR WORTHY NEIGHBORS' lavish display of envy is the best evidence that not alone our own following, but the former customers of the less progressive concerns, are enjoying the benefits of our unusual offerings. We thank them, however, for their liberal free advertising of our sale, and trust they will speak with equal vehemence this week of the price cutting in our furnishing and hat departments. Stamping our name on each article, and limiting the quantities, will prevent unwelcome dealers from participating in the feast.

TO ENLIVEN THE OCCASION there will be some lively price cutting in our hat and furnishing departments. This new guarantee of ours to refund money, without argument, if you can match us, makes dealing here more pleasant than ever. Our strictly one-price-to-all system gives the shrewd shopper no advantages which the more confiding must pay for. Ours is the store of the people, for the people; lookers become buyers; buyers become our best business promoters.

CLOTHING AT HALF. Men's Dark Gray Melton Overcoats, or Oxford Mixtures, if you prefer, $5, and price refunded if you can match 'em under $10. Men's Black Genuine Kersey Ulsters, nicely finished, at $6, and money refunded if you can match 'em under double. Men's Good Heavy Weight Blue Cheviot Suits, $5, Children's Suits for $1, Children's Overcoats for 75c, are a few of the cheaper items; but when it comes to the finer goods, peerless attire, such as the best custom tailors cannot improve upon, with the same guarantee of money refunded if you can match at anything near the price, you will not wonder that our sale has caused consternation in the ranks of EAST LIVERPOOL'S tradesmen.

Get Accustomed to Coming Here First. It's a Profitable Habit.
